

ANTONIO TAGLIALATELA, PhD

SHORT BIO

Antonio Tagliatela is a tenure-track Assistant Professor (RTDb) in English and Translation Studies at the University of Basilicata, a Research Fellow with INTI International University of Nilai-Malaysia, former Co-Director of the Summer School on British and Anglo-American Cultural Studies at the University of Urbino Carlo Bo, and Training Director at the Englishers' International Research and Training Institute, Ankara (Turkey).

After graduating in Modern Languages and Literatures from L'Orientale University in Naples (2006), Antonio gained a PgCert in Specialized Terminology for Language and Translation Services from the Catholic University of Sacred Heart in Milan (2010) and a postgraduate master's degree in Linguistic and Cultural Mediation from Sapienza University in Rome (2011). He subsequently completed his doctoral research at Parthenope University in Naples (2018) and was invited to join the Executive Board of the Italian Association of Foreign Language Teachers (ANILS).

Since 2014, he has taught various undergraduate and postgraduate courses at different universities, including English Translation and English for Specific Purposes (e.g., Business English, Legal English, English for International Relations and Human Rights, and English for Tourism and Cultural Heritage). From January 2019 to October 2022, he worked as a non-tenured Assistant Professor (RTDa) in English and Translation Studies at the University of Tuscia in Viterbo. In 2020, he was a visiting scholar at the Institute of Anglo-Italian Studies, University of Malta.

In January 2021, he received the ENGLISHERS' ICELLL-1 Best Paper Award 2021 on the occasion of the 1st International Conference on English Language, Linguistics and Literature (ICELLL-1) organized by the ENGLISHERS' LLL International Research and Training Institute in collaboration with National University of Modern Languages (Islamabad) and Capital Conferences (Ankara). He also collaborated as a Research Fellow with the same research Institute from March 2021 to December 2022.

In 2022, he was awarded the ANILS Quality Research Award for his invaluable research and activity on the pedagogy of English within the Association.

He is now participating in important European projects (e.g., YourTerm MARE; Allophone Teacher Academy-Erasmus+ Teacher Academies, among others). His research interests and publication fields span English as a lingua franca, intercultural communication and language pedagogy, and EU multilingualism and translation, and he presented at national and international conferences on these topics.

He is a member of the Italian Association of Foreign Language Teachers (ANILS), the European Society for the Study of English (ESSE), the Italian Association for English Studies (AIA), the Italian Association for Terminology (Ass.I.Term), and the REII Network (EC Directorate-General for Translation).
